

Neutering Rabbits can Prevent:

Behaviour Problems

Behaviour problems such as aggression, growling, false pregnancies, urine spraying and fighting are often removed or reduced after neutering.

Health Issues

Life threatening uterine cancer is reported to be as high as 80% in female rabbits over five years old. Spaying prevents uterine cancer and also reduces the chance of mammary tumours.

Unwanted Babies

Once neutered rabbits can enjoy living with another rabbit without the risk of hundreds of babies rabbits. After neutering, leave 4 weeks before introducing a female rabbit to a male.

For more information on rabbit care or adopting a rabbit please visit:

www.RabbitRehome.org.uk

Or contact your local rescue centre.

